Old King Oscar Is Very Low, And Has Been Unconscious During The Day.

PRINCE GUSTAVE IS THE REGENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Stockholm, Dec. 7.—King Oscar's condition this morning was distinctly worse. The Morning Bulletin says: "The King's strength has been continually decreasing during the night. At times he was not fully conscious, his heart is weaker, his pulse irregular and breathing difficult."

At Sixty-two
Stockholm, Dec. 7, 0:20 p. m.—The King's condition is now hopeless and the end is momentarily expected.

Is Dying
Stockholm, Dec. 7, 2:50 p. m.—King Oscar is gradually sinking. He has been unconscious almost all day long.

holm. The King had strong democratic notions as to the bringing up of his children.

His Training
But with all his democratic training and the example of his father before him, he has never been popular with his people. Gustav is said to be an enthusiastic admirer of Emperor William, and he has cultivated the army brasserie and discipline to the Germans. But despite his big ideas about military glory he is far from being a born ruler of men.

In 1881 Gustav was married to Victoria, daughter of the Grand Duke of Baden, granddaughter of the late Emperor William of Germany and full cousin of the present Kaiser. She has been an invalid for many years.

The oldest, who would become Crown Prince, is Prince Gustavus Adolphus, who was born November 11, 1882. In June, 1906, he was married to Princess Margaret Victoria, daughter of the Duke of Connaught and niece of King Edward. A son was born to the couple on April 22, 1906.

Other Sons
The other sons of Gustav and Victoria are Prince Wilhelm, Duke of Holstein-Gottorp, who was born June 12, 1884, and Prince Eric, Duke of Värmland, born April 20, 1883. He will be the fifth sovereign of the House of Bernadotte, and great-grandson of Marshal Bernadotte, Prince de Ponte Corvo, who was elected lieutenant of the Crown of Sweden by the parliament of the kingdom, Aug. 21, 1810, and ascended the throne Feb. 6, 1818, under the name of Carl XIV. Johan. He was succeeded at his death, March 8, 1844, by his only son Oscar. The latter died July 8, 1859, and was succeeded by his oldest son Carl XV., at whose premature death, without male children, the crown fell to his next surviving brother, the late King Oscar.

The chief ecclesiastics of the Swedish church have been summoned to the bedside of the King.

The Crown Prince
Prince Gustav, Crown Prince, Duke of Värmland, who will succeed his father, King Oscar, on the throne of Sweden, was born June 16, 1883. Like other members of the Swedish royal family the Crown Prince was educated in a great public school in Stockholm.

SIX-DAY BICYCLE RACE IN NEW YORK

Big Prizes Hung up For the Gruelling Contest Soon to Begin at Madison Square Garden.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Dec. 7.—The sport-loving public, which forms no inconsiderable element in the total population of the metropolis, is looking forward with the usual keen interest to the six-day bicycle race, which will be started in Madison Square Garden at one minute past midnight tomorrow night. The teams entered this year represent all quarters of the globe and include nearly all the favorites of recent years. Some radical changes have been made in the rules governing the running of the race this year, with a view to eradicating all unfair or foul riding. The prizes offered are $1500 to the winner, $1000 for second, $750 for third, and so on down the list. For a fatiguing six-day grind, $1500 does not seem very much for a winning team, but when it is taken into consideration that none of the riders can lose anything it puts a new light in the financial side of the contest. Every rider who finishes is paid something by the management. In addition to this, the entire traveling and training expenses of every team. In addition to the prizes, some of the prominent riders, like Root and Walther, are paid bonuses and, taking all in all, it is a very profitable week for the riders.

NORWAY'S GREATEST BARD SEVENTY-FIVE TOMORROW

Birthday Of Bjornson, Well Loved Poet And Author, Will Be Occasion Of National Demonstration.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Christiania, Dec. 7.—All Norway is preparing to celebrate tomorrow the seventy-fifth birthday of her most distinguished poet and author, Bjornstjerne Bjornson. The anniversary will be made the occasion for demonstrations by the literary, dramatic and singing societies throughout the country. Literary exercises will be held at the universities and in all the principal towns and the venerable author will doubtless be showered with congratulations from every quarter of the world.

Bjornson has long been recognized as the national poet of Norway. His name is a synonym of the hopes and aspirations of the Norwegian people in their political and intellectual struggles. No man ever loved Norway more than he; no man ever did more than he for her progress and prosperity. To promote her welfare he has unweariedly applied all the powers of his great genius.

Bjornson was born in 1832 in the district of Osterdalen, where his father was a clerk. Six years later his family moved to Romsdalen, a district famous for its magnificent scenery. At the age of eleven the lad was sent to school, but his progress was not rapid. When eighteen years old he came to Christiania and at Holtberg's school became a companion of Henrik Ibsen, Jonas Lie and others who were later to become famous.

Bjornson began his literary career in the early 50's. In 1857 he published a peasant novel, "Synnovo Solbakken," which proved epoch-making in Scandinavian literature. In it and several others that followed he gave an idealized picture of peasant life—brought the thoughts and aspirations of the peasantry into literature.

In all his literary work Bjornson has conscientiously and persistently sought to put his high and noble ideas into practice. He has not been a mere poet and dreamer, holding himself aloof from the people. He has personally—with both tongue and pen—engaged in every political, social and literary combat of his times. Through his ardent advocacy of reform he has often brought upon himself the wrath of many but the gratitude of more. He is without doubt the greatest orator that Norway has ever produced. Pleading the cause of truth and justice before a large audience he is irresistible. His oratorical powers have been lavishly used in the service of his country.

Bjornson is a man of powerful personality and commanding presence. Grim and furtive at times, he nevertheless possesses the gentleness of a woman. The approach of his seventy-fifth anniversary has flooded the Norwegian press with anecdotes and stories of the celebrated poet. There are many touching stories of his relations with his tenants on his estate and the scores of poor people and social outcasts who continually visit him for advice and assistance. And it is said that none seeks him in vain.

DYNAMITE'S GENIUS PAYS WORLD'S BEST WORKERS

Kipling, Sir William Crookes, And Prof. A. A. Michelson Are Three Of The Five To Receive Alfred Nobel Prizes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Stockholm, Dec. 7.—The five Nobel prizes, founded with his vast fortune by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, to reward each year those who have most added humanity by scientific or medical research, by literary literature, and by the promotion of peace, will be distributed next Tuesday, which will be the eleventh anniversary of Mr. Nobel's death. The names of most of this year's prize winners are already known and announcement of the others is expected within the next day or two.

The literary prize goes to Rudyard Kipling, the distinguished English author. Kipling's predecessors have been Sully Prudhomme, Mommsen, Bjornson, Mistral, Ibsen, Gorky, Sklovietz and Carducci.

The prize for chemistry will be awarded to Sir William Crookes of London, the discoverer of thallium and the inventor of the radiometer, and who recently discovered a process of extracting nitric acid from the atmosphere, a discovery which is expected to revolutionize the nitrate industry and the world's food problem. The recipients of the chemistry prize in former years were Prof. Van Hoff of Germany, Prof. Fischer of Germany, Prof. Arrhenius of Sweden, Sir William Ramsay of England, Prof.

von Bayer of Germany and M. Moissan of France.

The prize for physics this year has been awarded to an American, Prof. A. A. Michelson of the University of Chicago, in recognition of his discovery of a new method of determining the velocity of light. Dr. Michelson's predecessors have been Prof. Rontgen of Germany, Prof. Lorenz and Prof. Zeeman of Holland, M. and Mme. Curie and M. Becquerel of France, Lord Rayleigh of England, Prof. Lord of Germany, and Prof. Thomson of England.

The Nobel prizes have an average value of $10,000 each and are given annually to those who have done the most useful work during the year in literature, physical science, chemistry, physiology or medicine and for the propagation of peace. The Nobel Foundation, which has the awards in charge, was established by Alfred Bernhard Nobel, in a will which he made in 1895. The inventor's fortune of $20,000,000 was devoted to capitalizing the prizes, and the administration of the foundation and awards of prizes are in the hands of the Swedish learned academies and, for the peace prize, a committee of the Norwegian Parliament. The prizes were first awarded in 1901, the distribution taking place annually on December 10,

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

There were many pleasant surprises when the recent Thanksgiving holiday was celebrated, for the occasion which reunites families and brings old friends together, is always an occasion of pleasure.

The most unique and perhaps the most pathetic gathering of the day, occurred at Ellis Island, the little place of government land out in the bay, a mile or more from the Battery, where the great ocean liners discharge their cargo of immigrants, and where our government decides who shall be admitted, and who shall return to the land from whence they came.

The population of this port of entry is always composed of a motley crowd, for the island can only be reached from the mainland by government ferries, and a pass, not easily obtained, is necessary for admission.

In this safe retreat the prospective citizen from every clime finds refuge from the sharpers, which for so many years made old Castle Garden notorious. Passports are examined, food and lodging furnished, railroad tickets bought for destination in any part of the country, and the newcomer safely placed on the right train and started on his way.

One of the big liners discharged her cargo of human freight at Ellis Island, the day before Thanksgiving, and the holiday interfered with the regular routine of business, to such an extent that the quarters were crowded with foreigners, from a dozen lands.

A philanthropic gentleman in New York was prompted to serve this little army with an old-fashioned New England Thanksgiving dinner, so supplies were quickly gathered, and at 12 o'clock the spread was served.

A liberal sprinkling of five-dollar gold-pieces had been used in making the cakes, and every now and then a son of Erin would bite into an American eagle, and spit it out with a "No kind of fruit do they be using in their cakes over here."

Interpreters were kept busy explaining that Thanksgiving was a national holiday, and that they had arrived just in time to share in its festivities.

This Thanksgiving spirit prevailed throughout the great city, and the poor and unfortunate of every class were generously remembered.

The contrast between the motley company on Ellis Island and the crowds which thronged the corridors of the Waldorf-Astoria was very noticeable.

This wonderful hostelry, with its full quota of 1500 guests, who pay all the way from $4 to $100 a day for rooms, is a forcible reminder of the fact that the well-to-do American believes in living by the way, and yet the crowd is just as cosmopolitan as the Ellis Island crowd, and the throng of visitors and sightseers, always in evidence, is only duplicated in this country at the great dry-goods emporium of Marshall Field &amp; Company in Chicago.

The Waldorf-Astoria has eight public dining-rooms on the first floor, where the serving of meals is practically a continuous performance from 6:30 in the morning until long after midnight.

The management plans to serve 20,000 meals and lunches every day in the year. With coffee at 30 cents a cup, and everything else in proportion, it is safe to assume that the receipts from this source are from $20,000 a day up, and yet prices are always satisfactory, for no hotel furnishes guests so much for their money, in the way of entertainment.

Concerts of the highest order, lectures and theatricals of the same class, are of almost daily occurrence, and all are as free as air to the guests of the house.

Forty feet below the sidewalk and covering the area of the whole block, is a subterranean city which furnishes the power, heat and light of this great caravansary, and also supplies the labor, for here are the great store rooms, where provisions are handled in carload lots, and the mammoth kitchen where food is prepared for the entire house.

Several years ago there drifted into the city of New York, a boy from the west, who had prepared himself for the work of an electrical engineer. He was employed by one of the large construction companies, and when the famous Flatiron block was erected he was put in charge of the electrical work.

This was but the stepping-stone to greater responsibilities, and soon his ability attracted attention, and the management of the Waldorf-Astoria secured his services at a liberal salary.

Today Ezra Bingham of Koshkonong, is the man who installs all machinery, superintends all decorating, and is held accountable for the faithful services of 250 of the 1500 employees.

The man who employs him, pays $1,000,000 a year rent, on a 20-year lease, and unless appearances are very deceptive, Bingham is his right-hand man.

The average boy can remember when his mother tried to arouse ambition by telling him that his chances were good for capturing the presidency if he was a good boy, but it was too much of a lottery to offer inducements, and the most of us never waited an effort.

But there are other opportunities outside the presidency, and within reach of earnest effort and expert ability. Bingham found one of these opportunities, recognized it, had the courage to grasp it, and the ability to fill it.

The new American citizen comes into the nation through the open gateway at Ellis Island. Whether his entrance occurs on Thanksgiving day, or any other, he has occasion to rejoice that he has found a land not only of freedom but of great opportunity.

But the American boy possesses by inheritance all the rights and privileges which the land affords, and begins the race a long stride in advance of his adopted brother from across the sea.

It is a goodly inheritance, not half appreciated, so rich in blessing that the gates of Castle Garden never swing out to any American-born citizen, for the only class who ever go abroad, to better their condition, is the fragment of ill-brained helmsmen who aspire to a title, and they count for so little, that the ranks of citizenship are never depleted, and their presence seldom missed.

The sidewalk in front of the Hamburg-American steamship office, was crowded, one morning this week, and for a block away, men stood in line, waiting for an opportunity to buy tickets back to the "fatherland." Those men represented a part of the 70,000 who have taken their departure during the past ten days. Frightened by the panic, and fearing that the nation is on the verge of ruin, they have gone home, many of them to remain.

It will be no great loss to the country, for their presence will scarcely be missed, outside the Bowery district, and even here the census report will not shrink perceptibly.

There were no Americans in the crowd, for when they go abroad their tickets are bought at an uptown office, and they do not travel as stowaways. The American has nothing to run away from, even in these plinking times of readjustment and make shift currency. He is staying by the ship in full confidence of the fact that out of the shoals the craft will emerge unharmed and better equipped for the voyage.

New York is an object lesson which inspires confidence in the best nation under the sun, and stimulates gratitude for a birthright on American soil.

The foreigner may come and go, but the forward stride of the nation will not be retarded. It is God's country, marching on to destiny and fortune, the man who hails its banner and enjoys its protection.

The Christmas turkeys are still waiting for the fatal day when the rest of the humans rejoice.

Have you made out your list of Christmas presents as yet?

The great Atlantic fleet that is to become a Pacific one is on its way.

A Large Idea.

A little girl who is kept indoors pretty much all the time by her unwelcome cautious parents, and who dearly loves the sunshine, the songs of birds and the flowers, thoughtfully remarked to her mother one day that her idea of heaven was a big house where the inside of every room was outdoors.

The management plans to serve 20,000 meals and lunches every day in the year. With coffee at 30 cents a cup, and everything else in proportion, it is safe to assume that the receipts from this source are from $20,000 a day up, and yet prices are always satisfactory, for no hotel furnishes guests so much for their money, in the way of entertainment.

Concerts of the highest order, lectures and theatricals of the same class, are of almost daily occurrence, and all are as free as air to the guests of the house.

Forty feet below the sidewalk and covering the area of the whole block, is a subterranean city which furnishes the power, heat and light of this great caravansary, and also supplies the labor, for here are the great store rooms, where provisions are handled in carload lots, and the mammoth kitchen where food is prepared for the entire house.

Several years ago there drifted into the city of New York, a boy from the west, who had prepared himself for the work of an electrical engineer. He was employed by one of the large construction companies, and when the famous Flatiron block was erected he was put in charge of the electrical work.

This was but the stepping-stone to greater responsibilities, and soon his ability attracted attention, and the management of the Waldorf-Astoria secured his services at a liberal salary.

Today Ezra Bingham of Koshkonong, is the man who installs all machinery, superintends all decorating, and is held accountable for the faithful services of 250 of the 1500 employees.

The man who employs him, pays $1,000,000 a year rent, on a 20-year lease, and unless appearances are very deceptive, Bingham is his right-hand man.

The average boy can remember when his mother tried to arouse ambition by telling him that his chances were good for capturing the presidency if he was a good boy, but it was too much of a lottery to offer inducements, and the most of us never waited an effort.

But there are other opportunities outside the presidency, and within reach of earnest effort and expert ability. Bingham found one of these opportunities, recognized it, had the courage to grasp it, and the ability to fill it.

The new American citizen comes into the nation through the open gateway at Ellis Island. Whether his entrance occurs on Thanksgiving day, or any other, he has occasion to rejoice that he has found a land not only of freedom but of great opportunity.

But the American boy possesses by inheritance all the rights and privileges which the land affords, and begins the race a long stride in advance of his adopted brother from across the sea.

It is a goodly inheritance, not half appreciated, so rich in blessing that the gates of Castle Garden never swing out to any American-born citizen, for the only class who ever go abroad, to better their condition, is the fragment of ill-brained helmsmen who aspire to a title, and they count for so little, that the ranks of citizenship are never depleted, and their presence seldom missed.

The sidewalk in front of the Hamburg-American steamship office, was crowded, one morning this week, and for a block away, men stood in line, waiting for an opportunity to buy tickets back to the "fatherland." Those men represented a part of the 70,000 who have taken their departure during the past ten days. Beloit Court Busy—One "Jag" Offers $100 Check For Fine and Flash as Big "Roll."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., Dec. 7.—Tendering a $100 check in payment for his fine as he walked up before Judge Ross and pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness, A. J. Fullagar made the court and the clerk sit up and take notice. "If that isn't enough," he said, "there's more where that came from," and he drew a large roll of checks, cashiers' checks and greenbacks and a handful of silver from his pocket. He paid the fine from the cashiers' checks as the court was unable to cash the one first offered. As he walked away he exclaimed, "I've been trenched." "What for?" queried Chief of Police Schobel. "A bottle of 'Old Crow' was the reply. 'It's waiting for you at the jail,'" said Schobel.

Jean La Rue paid a fine of $10 for drunkenness in the Wilson theatre lobby last evening, when it is said he struck Mrs. P. H. Lane as she was leaving the building. He pleaded guilty though denying all knowledge of his misbehavior.

Herman Moran and Sherman Jordan paid $5 for drunk and disorderly conduct and Roy Jordan was released on the same charge, having proved himself only a spectator to the fracas in which the other two figured.

No prosaic Bible class will be held by the juniors of the Beloit Y. M. C. A. hereafter. There will be little "pow wows" from now on with the two classes called (ribes). STREET RAILWAY CO.
PAYS ITS STATE TAX

Of $438.75 on Gross Receipts of $17,540.90 For the Year Ending December 1.

City Treasurer James A. Fathen today received from Edwin L. Blahon of Philadelphia, secretary and treasurer of the Janesville Street Car Co., a statement that the gross receipts for the year ending Dec. 1, 1907, amounted to $17,540.90. This is but a slight increase over that year's total of $17,528.40, and is a reminder that there were fewer ball games and circus than usual here last summer and that the Chautauqua was not as big a success as heretofore. A check for $438.75 in payment of the 2 1/2 per cent state tax was enclosed. Twelve per cent of this amount goes to the county and the balance is to be divided among the ward funds in proportion to the amount of truckage.

The American Motor Road Roller

The Only Gasoline Roller in the United States

Made in Four Sizes. 7 Tons—10 Tons—12 Tons—15 Tons

It can do anything and everything which the very best type of Steam Roller can do.

It can do it more easily, more efficiently, more economically and less objectionably.

It carries out all its operations:

WITHOUT smoke, steam, sparks or soot blowing about.

WITHOUT water.

WITHOUT the expense of teams and men to furnish water.

WITHOUT the expense of teams and men to haul coal.

WITHOUT loss of time making steam.

WITHOUT a specially licensed engineer.

WITHOUT risk of boiler explosion.

WITHOUT laying up for boiler repairs.

It can be operated by gasoline or denatured alcohol.

It will haul a scudger, grader, road plow, stone wagon or portable crusher.

It will furnish power to operate a rock crusher or other machine.

It carries in its own tank enough gasoline to run ten hours on full load, or up to fifteen or twenty hours on lighter load, which saves frequent stoppage for fuel. It can carry with it, on a separate truck, enough gasoline to run it a month.

It uses fuel only during Actual Hours it is Worked. There are no fuel and time wasted getting up steam or "banking up fires" over nights. It can start rolling on One Minute's Notice.

It is fitted with an Oil-Cooled Cylinder of the latest improved type, such as is used on the most expensive automobiles. Requires no water whatever. In this device the same oil is used over and over indefinitely. Oil will not freeze, and the American Motor Roller can be left out in winter without risk of burst pipes, valves, etc.

The Start, Stop and Reverse are Controlled by a Single Lever.

The Speed of Travel can be varied at will by a slight lever movement, from the "slowest" motion ever required up to the highest speed that could ever be needed of any roller.

It unquestionably represents the perfection of the art in power road rollers, and is a long step in advance of anything that has hitherto been made in this line, either in this country or abroad.

It will rapidly supplant all steam rollers everywhere.

HALT CALLED IN SOCIETY DOINGS

CHRISTMAS SEASON'S NEAR APPROACH KEEPS MANY BUSY.

ENJOY CARDS, HOWEVER

Time is found for this enjoyment—Many Clubs Organized for the Winter.

With Christmas but seventeen days off the society leaders are busy with the preparations for the Christmas holidays. Large parties have appeared all over the city, and the Christmas season is now in full swing.

The New Year arrives, but card clubs continue to flourish, the ladies finding relaxation in their Christmas work at the card table. Six o'clock dinners for small companies are also frequent. Many of the younger set also find time to skate at the rink afternoons and some of them in the evenings as well. The regular Thursday evening club not having been organized as yet, it has been decided to wait until after New Year's.

Walking clubs, however, are still popular. The Band of Hope continue on their daily migrations and the young ladies who have taken trips to Illinois and around the Big Horn take their winter rambles on foot.

Afternoon clubs are being formed among professional men who have not time to walk during the day and some of the businessmen have begun to devote their spare hours to bowling and handball for exercise.

The Automobile show and the Fat Stock show have called many Janesville visitors to Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. George S. Parker and family and two sons are among the Janesville people who have taken in the exhibition. H. H. Baldwin and wife are also visiting in Chicago at this time and many others have gone down for a day at a time.

With "Happyland," DeWolf Hopper and Marguerite Clark in the title roles, here on Thursday last and Bertha Kalich in "The Girl of the Year" on Tuesday next the theatregoers have had two excellent attractions. On Tuesday many Madison people are expected for the production as the attraction does not go to the Capital city.

On Monday last Mrs. Will Sayles entertained at a one o'clock luncheon in honor of her friend, Mrs. Banks of Minneapolis. Mrs. David Holmes also entertained the young ladies' bridge club at their customary luncheon with cards afterwards.

Tuesday came the Golf Club Dances at Central Hall. This was the second of the series of six to be given under the auspices of the golf club, the next being on New Year's night, a dress affair, the others of the series being informal.

On Wednesday Mrs. H. A. Ford entertained The Nine Bridge Club at her home on Oakland Boulevard. This is the latest acquisition to the afternoon clubs and is composed of Mrs. Charles Bostwick, Miss Ray Bostwick, Miss Mabel Shumway, Mrs. Frank Farnsworth, Mrs. William Rogers, Jr., Miss Josephine Carlo, Mrs. M. H. Osburn, Mrs. H. D. Hoover and Mrs. H. A. Ford.

On Thursday afternoon the O. E. S. Study class met in the banquet hall of Masonic Temple. The subject was Domestic Science and all the ladies of the O. E. S. were invited to be present. Miss Colman of the department of domestic science in the Janesville high school kindly consented to have charge and fully demonstrated the value of home economics in the school. Miss Colman with six of the Junior girls demonstrated the making of chocolate cakes, which they served later together with coffee, sandwiches, salad, etc., prepared by the ladies. The aim of education is to develop the child mentally, morally and physically. Taking for example, the cake just made, botany can be brought in by the study of the wheat, cocoa nuts, vanilla, sugar, etc.; the subject of geography in the study about the countries where cocoa, vanilla, etc., come from; also industrial chemistry in the study of the action of acid and alkali in the presence of moisture to expand the gas, etc., all of which show us that there is mental development. The moral training is derived in the study of right living, good management, good cooking, good and clean home making, and good education, all tend to make a happy home. From the physical side we all know that fresh air and sunshine are the best disinfectants and preventives of disease. There were about seventy-five present and all were greatly pleased with Miss Colman's handling of the subject and felt that the time given to domestic science in our school was time well spent.

On Thursday seventeen ladies belonging to the Saturday Duplicate Whist Club were the guests of Mrs. W. B. Barbour of Rockford at luncheon and later played bridge whilst at the Brown Tea Pot. Mrs. J. L. Bostwick also entertained a ladies' afternoon card club on Thursday. In the evening the Elks had a ladies' night, serving luncheon at eleven and dancing and music followed.

On Monday of next week come the meetings of the literary clubs. Tuesday Mrs. Charles Bostwick entertains the Nine Bridge Club, Bertha Kalich and the Twilight Club both being scheduled for the evening.

On Wednesday evening at 8 Mrs. Ogden H. Fothergill has issued invitations for bridge and on Thursday Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy has issued invitations for a one o'clock luncheon.

The dancing party given by Janesville Chapter No. 69 Order of the Eastern Star last evening, was attended by about ninety couples including visitors from Janesville, Harvard, Madison, and Chicago. Assembly hall was elaborately decorated for the occasion and Knott & Hatch's orchestra discoursed a very pleasing program of musical numbers. The arrangements were in charge of a committee composed of

M. C. Fish, chairman, Mrs. B. P. Carlo, and Mrs. Smiley, and George Crane, R. P. Carlo, T. H. Howe, and M. C. Fish were members of the floor committee.

Mrs. Florence Spencer, president of W. H. C. No. 21, entertained the officers and committee yesterday afternoon, from one to six, the occasion being her birthday. Who was present with roses, carnations, sterling silver, spoons, china, etc. There were twenty-three present, together with Mrs. Juliette Morris, department inspector from Beloit. There were games of different kinds, after which choice refreshments were served. Mrs. Spencer is a genial hostess.

HER WHEREABOUTS STILL A MYSTERY

Mother and Husband of Madelyn Clayton, Who Disappeared from Janesville Apartments Nov. 25, Write to City Marshal.

No clue to the possible whereabouts of Mrs. Madelyn Odell Clayton, who suddenly took leave of the residence of Mrs. Sarah Jackman, 205 South Franklin street, at eight o'clock on the night of Monday, November 25, has been discovered either by the local police or the woman's distracted relatives. A letter dictated yesterday by the mother, Mrs. May McKay, who is critically ill at her home, 6118 Indiana avenue, was received by City Marshal Appleby this morning. The content was as follows:

Dec. 6, '07.

Chief of Police, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: Two weeks ago next Monday, Madelyn Odell Clayton disappeared from her boarding house in Janesville, Wis., particulars of the case having been given you at the time by the husband, Fred J. Clayton. He and other relatives have done all they can to help find her, but so far have not the slightest trace of her, and fear foul play or worse. Her mother, Mrs. McKay, is prostrate from grief and anxiety. Her sister is in a precarious condition. (Stator in Mrs. McKay's body.)

What has been done in your town? and what would you advise us to do? Let us have an answer of some kind to relieve this terrible suspense. Have the papers published anything about the case? If so we will send for them.

In reply for a mother's grief answer and tell us what to do. Would it be any use for any of us to come to Janesville? The police here were notified more than a week ago. Thanking you for what I am sure you will do, I will enclose envelope for reply.

Very truly,
MRS. MCKAY.

Per II.

Phone 6105 Blue.

The envelope was addressed to Mrs. May McKay, Flat 1, 6118 Indiana avenue, Chicago. A postal was also received by the City Marshal from the husband last evening mailed in Chicago. It contained the following:

Dear Sir:

Kindly do all you can to find Madelyn Clayton. Her mother is at the point of death. Also her sister is in a very precarious condition. No trace of her in Chicago or Milwaukee. Notify Mrs. Mary McKay, 6118 Ind. ave., Chicago, and oblige.

FRED CLAYTON.

The mysterious thing about Mrs. Clayton's disappearance is the voluntary manner in which she took her departure just an hour before the usual time for her husband to return to their apartments. The couple came here about three weeks ago and the man opened a studio of clairvoyance at the residence of Mrs. Katherine Graham, 104 South Main street, where he apparently did fairly good business for a time. He is about 35 years of age and she appeared to be about twenty-four.

Visited the Depots.

From a conversation with Mrs. Sarah Jackman this afternoon some facts were learned which throw a little light on the mystery. When Mr. Clayton first applied for the room and stated that he was a clairvoyant, Mrs. Jackman refused to rent it to him. She was persuaded to change her mind, however, by his further statement that he was to have his studio on the other side of the river and that he only wanted a quiet place for his wife, who, though she also followed the same calling, had not been in the best of spirits and did not intend to give any sittings. The man was very gentlemanly of bearing and pleasant in all of his dealings, and the young wife proved to be a handsome brunette with masses of dark hair, beautifully arched eyebrows, dark and snapping eyes, and the bearing of one who had come from a refined family and was instinctively familiar with the graces of a gentlewoman. After a few days she put up a sign in one of the windows and in the course of time gave a dozen or more readings in palmistry, though she went into no trances and conducted no experiments in clairvoyance. Her husband was accustomed to cross the river about six o'clock every evening and take her to supper at some one of the several restaurants in the vicinity. He did this on the night she disappeared and instead of returning at once to her room, she accompanied him to his quarters on South Main street. Several prospective patrons were waiting for him and she lingered there only a few moments, returning unaccompanied to her room on South Franklin street. She was there shortly after eight o'clock when Ben Jackman came home and her disappearance was first known about 9:30 when the husband reached the house and finding the outer door locked, contrary to custom, tapped on her window. At first he thought she might have gone to one of the restaurants for a lunch but he walked the streets until three in the morning without discovering any trace of her other than the information that a woman answering her description had visited both railroad depots. Neither the agent could say whether or not the woman in question purchased a ticket. She not only left the room locked and took the key with her but she also left behind nearly all of her belongings, including some jewelry, her umbrella, hand-bag, and extra garments.

Spoke Lovingly of Waterloo.

The couple had been married about a year and the husband always treated the wife with a consideration and deference which might have been accorded a child. They came here from Beloit and had previously been in Freeport and before that in Waterloo, Ind., where they gave readings in a theatre and were very well received by the people. The young woman spoke lovingly of Waterloo, in particular, on several occasions—told Mrs. Jackman how the citizens voted with one another in treating them nicely and expressed a wish that she might go back there. Another time she voiced an inclination to go back to Freeport. Once Mrs. Jackman heard her crying as if in hysterics—harsh sort of sob that seemed rather to arise from disappointment than deep grief. When the husband was told about this he became very thoughtful and remarked that his wife seemed to be very much depressed and melancholy. There is always a possibility that the woman, three hours into the river or took her life in some other terrible fashion, but this theory is not entertained very seriously in view of the clue the depots offered.

His Own Vocation Failed.

Inasmuch as clairvoyants profess to locate lost persons, Mrs. Jackman asked Mr. Clayton why he did not consult some fellow practitioner and endeavor to find his wife in that manner. He threw up his hands despairingly: "That wouldn't help—She knows our methods and has fixed it so we cannot reach her."

Y. M. C. A. Men's Meeting: The Rev. W. J. Christy of the St. Peter's English Lutheran Church will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock. These meetings have been very interesting and well attended in the past and all men are cordially invited to attend.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Mrs. W. Johnson, of 127 Pearl St., Janesville, Wis., says: "For a long time I had a severe pain in my back that must have been due to some disorders of the kidneys. It was aching constantly and became so severe at times that I was almost prostrated. Numerous remedies that I tried, failed to help me and finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at The People's Drug Store. After using this remedy for a short time I found a complete cure, and the trouble has not returned."

His COURTSHIP

By HELEN R. MARTIN,
Author of "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid."

Copyright, 1907, by McClure, Phillips & Company.

His laugh sounded to her sardonic. "Went you? Let me tell you something. The night I saw you off on your train for New York there was a sudden drop in my spiritual thermometer that left me torpid, bored, sick to death of the not-worth-whileness of things. After a few days I wrote to you, and the expectation of hearing from you revived me somewhat. But the expectation prolonged itself to a point where it ceased to be interesting and became tormenting. 'Why doesn't Eunice answer my letter?' was the only thought my brain contained day and night."

"But now that you know why you say that you missed my 'wisdom' in keeping silent?"

"Ah, but what good did it serve? For you see here I am at your side—in spite of your wisdom, in spite of your own—for I, too, Eunice, have been acting wisely since we parted, else a whole month would not have passed without our looking again into each other's eyes."

"There was a passion in his voice that caught her breath."

"You have been representing your feelings in staying away—your feelings for me?" she asked breathlessly. "Did you want to see me?" came her wiseful question.

"Did I? Here I am!" was his answer.

"But," her eagerness suddenly dropped, and she spoke mournfully, "it can't last, you know."

"No. Your aunt is going to take you to Europe!"

"Yes."

"She says you are wild to go!"

"Oh!" She lifted her head and flung back a lock of hair from her eyes. "In spite of all the delights that wealth can give, what is it all when it can't feed the soul, when the heart is always longing for just one thing that—"

"She checked herself, and again her head dropped."

"And that one thing, Eunice?"

She raised her eyes to his. "It is you I have wanted! Rather than go to Europe—so far away from you—I would bring back those days of last only interest, my only happiness; that in the meeting of her life and mine, the deepest needs of my nature had been met and fed; and at last I came face to face with the knowledge that she was all to me that a woman can be to a man; that I loved her utterly!"

Eunice walked at his side like one moving in a dream. For a moment the silence between them troubled with their strong emotion. "And then," he presently went on, the gravity of his voice enlivened his throbbing heart, "came my bitter struggle with myself. I was not willing to take advantage of your inexperience—before you had had an opportunity to see other men. I knew you cared for me, but how could I be sure that your feeling would bear the test of your larger knowledge and experience? Clearly my honorable course was to be silent, to withdraw into the background of your life, until you should come into a mature understanding of your own heart."

"Then, the simplicity of the life I would have to offer you as the wife of a teacher compared with the brilliant career you might have—possessed of large means—a man would have to think better of himself than I thought to ask a woman to make such a sacrifice."

"The possibility that you might think me a fortune hunter, I put aside as an unworthy thought of you. That your aunt might attribute such a motive to me—I was indifferent to that, though I believe she would favor me as a suitor, she's so daff about 'family.' And she's not mercenary either. So my own comparative poverty would not stand in my way with her."

"Then I reasoned that in denying my heart I risked not only my own life's happiness, but yours—as well. Fortune hunters would swarm like bees about you, and in your guilelessness how easily you might be deceived into a wretched marriage! Why should I step aside for others even less worthy than myself? I wanted you now—now while that sweet wild wood flavor was upon you! Perhaps you would never love me if I took you to myself and kept you so close to me forever that the world could not get near to you. Why should I leave it to others to enjoy the charming opening up of your young mind to the wonderful panorama of life, for who could delight more than I in the unfolding of your beautiful spirit? Had I not discovered you? Why should I not have my reward? Why should I not woo you, marry you, travel with you all over the world, teach and guide you where I could and myself be taught and guided by your womanly loveliness?"

"Eunice, I was almost appalled when once I gave love to myself at the strength of my love for you, for I felt the hurt of it almost as much as the ecstasy. 'I tried to persuade myself that your love for me was as fundamental, as inevitable, as mine for you, but the very force of my own passion made me distrust the sophistries of my selfishness. I know that if I would not degrade my great love for you I must put your best welfare above my own desires. I must leave you free—until you had taken your bearings in the world and had found yourself. And then, if it were not too late—'

"That thought gripped my very soul! And so, Eunice, as I am a man and not a god, my love and not my reason carried the day—and I am here with you!"

He stopped in the solitary path into which they had strayed and opened his arms to her.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headaches, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness. If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cure. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening remedy known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of all the several eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills. You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy or known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to sell you upon a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much improved but never equalled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

WOMAN PERISHES IN ST. PAUL FIRE

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 7.—Fire broke out in the kitchen of Carling's restaurant at 319 Robert street early Saturday morning and a woman employee was burned to death.

Eight young women, employed at the restaurant and sleeping on the third floor of the building, were awakened by the smoke and rushed to the windows. They were about to leap to the pavement below when firemen arrived and rescued them. At first it was thought that all had been rescued, but later it was discovered that Katie Sopp was missing. Later her body was found.

The fire broke out in the kitchen on the second floor of the building, which is a three-story structure, and soon swept up into the "third" floor, and enveloped the entire rear of the building. The restaurant was one of the finest in St. Paul.

The men's furnishing establishment of R. N. Lampher, directly north of the restaurant, was badly damaged by water. The total loss on the restaurant will probably not exceed $35,000, about 75 per cent. of which is covered by insurance.

Big Fire in Council Bluffs.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Dec. 7.—The warehouse of David Bradley & Co., wholesale implement dealers, was burned to the ground Friday night, the cause of the fire being unknown. The loss on the stock and building will reach $225,000. Insurance to the amount of $140,000 was in force.
